ACTIVORIS AND AJW TECH TO FORM STRATEGIC PARTNERSHIP

Gemünden (Wohra)/Düsseldorf, Germany and Apollo Beach, Florida, June 19, 2017 – Germany-based Activoris Medizintechnik GmbH and Florida-based AJW Technology Consultants, Inc. today announced a strategic partnership for international development and regulatory support.

AJW Technology Consultants in Florida recently opened a German office in Düsseldorf to enlarge its European footprint and to meet the growing needs of its clients. Both companies combine forces and will serve international clients to provide medtech consulting and development services for the two major regulatory regions US and EU. As a first joint appearance, both companies will share an exhibition stand at MT Connect in Nürnberg, Germany (Hall 10.1, Booth 305).

Axel Fischer, CEO of Activoris comments: “Both Europe and the US are major markets for medical technologies and our customers require first-class expertise regarding their regulatory strategy with the FDA. We are very happy to team-up with AJW Tech, because this partnership will strengthen our service portfolio with truly local technical, regulatory, and clinical know-how from an experienced US consulting firm.”

Jon Ward, CEO of AJW Technology Consultants, Inc. added: “The team at Activoris has a long history with successful product development, manufacturing, and marketing projects. We are excited to partner with such an experienced group of like-minded and experienced professionals. Our internationally collaborative approach will ensure that our customers experience a seamless solution from concept to commercialization throughout Europe and the United States.”
